

WEEKLY IMAGE

Dear Grian,

I hate no one, but I am abhorred by all. People keep cutting me, and then they run away in disgust. What should I do?

Sincerely,
Air Biscuit

Dear Ryan...I mean Mr. Biscuit,

Sometimes we can't accept who we are. I finally just accepted my good looks and the way all the ladies look at me. You just need to look at the good parts in life. You make great jokes in quiet situations and sometimes you don't even have to say anything and people immediately know of your presence. I would say to just avoid people, butt that would be wrong. I secretly think everyone likes you. Everyone cuts you because they want to share you with others. I know that doesn't make sense, butt just go with it.

With love,
Bertler

Do Not Forget

“Do not merely listen to the word, and so deceive yourselves. Do what it says. Anyone who listens to the word but does not do what it says is like someone who looks at his face in a mirror and, after looking at himself, goes away and immediately forgets what he looks like. But whoever looks intently into the perfect law that gives freedom, and continues in it—not forgetting what they have heard, but doing it—they will be blessed in what they do.”

James 1: 22-25

Take advantage of what time you have left here this summer. Look into the mirror. Search yourselves and evaluate what your true desires are. Read God’s word and practice the things he would have you do. Make use of the community here and learn from each other. For the time will come when you must return home and head back to school. Don’t be like the man who so easily forgets what he looks like.

Be strong and disciplined. For this process of gazing into the mirror and looking away must continue when you return home. Otherwise I guarantee you will forget what you look like. Continue to pursue the virtues of your creator and savior, and seek to make them your own.

Do these things and you will be blessed, says James, and be careful not to do these things because you want to be blessed. For selfishness will destroy all that you have learned and will yet learn this summer.

Staff Outing

This week we will saunter on down to the great city of Madison and spend some time in the mall. You can blow your pay check on a cute new outfit or just spend a few bucks on supper. Either way you will have lots of fun with great friends!
